Ten Words: Life of Influence Begins this Sunday

Wait A Minute!

The airliner was bound for New York. It was a routine flight - but then. Descending to the destination, the pilot realized the landing gear refused to engage. He worked the controls back and forth, trying again and again to make the gear lock down into place. No success. He then asked the control tower for instructions as he circled the landing field. Responding to the crisis, airport personnel sprayed the runway with foam as fire trucks and other emergency vehicles moved into position.

The passengers, meanwhile, were told of each maneuver in that calm, cheery voice pilots manage to use at times like this. Flight attendants glided about the cabin with an air of cool reserve. Passengers were told to place their heads between their knees and grab their ankles just before impact. For the passengers, it was one of those "I can't believe this is happening to me" experiences.

Suddenly, the pilot announced over the intercom: "We are beginning our final descent. At this moment, in accordance with International Aviation Codes established at Geneva, it is my obligation to inform you that if you believe in God you should commence prayer."

Now, I don't know about you, but my commencement of prayer would have begun much earlier than that. Don't let prayer for you become nothing more than a hotline to God. But follow the Biblical example, "Pray continually ... and in everything, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, let your requests be known to God.

That's what prayer should be but quite honestly for me, that's not what prayer always is. Let's covenant together that we will pray for everything without becoming anxious for anything.

After a week off, I'm looking forward to worshipping with you this Sunday. See you then.

"Do not think that I have come to abolish the Law or the Prophets; I have not come to abolish them but to fulfill them. For truly I tell you, until heaven and earth disappear, not the smallest letter, not the least stroke of a pen, will by any means disappear from the Law until everything is accomplished." (Matthew 5: 17-18)
